

MESSAGE

We are very pleased to come out with this first issue of the TSSP Journal. This publication is a milestone in the young life of the Society. It will go a long way in promoting the objectives of the Society by providing a medium for researchers in the field of transportation to publish their work.

A review of articles featured in this journal will underline the multi-disciplinary nature of transportation. This gives substance to the reason for being of TSSP - that of promoting a comprehensive approach to transportation planning, policy formulation, design and implementation. Whereas other professional organizations admit members only in specific disciplines, TSSP is open to experts belonging to various disciplines but whose expertise is in the field of transportation.

Let me congratulate the editorial staff for a work well done. They will ensure that this publication will come out on a regular basis.
